RE: RANDAL WINTER CONSTRUCTION

To Whom It May Concern:

In January of 2003 I hired Randal Winter Construction to build a loft and add crown molding in my home. After working with Randy, his office and his workers, I would recommend his company highly to anyone looking for a reliable and experienced contractor.

Randy's office staff was very thorough, following up regularly. All of his subcontractors and workers were clean, polite and respectful of my home, my family and our things. The work was done precisely in the time it was projected, an unusual thing in the world of remodeling. Randy was very "hands on" with the project, checking in numerous times throughout the day to ensure his subcontractors and workers were following his and my directions. In addition, he kept me informed entirely throughout the project, letting me know of the status of each phase.

The entire project was quick, clean, easy and stress-free. Because of Randy's experience, I had total confidence in him, which was reinforced continually throughout the construction. I would hire Randy again for any future remodeling and give him and his company my highest recommendation.
